Read our guides on EU Law

Our two guides on EU law provide an overview and summary of EU law that is relevant for trans people living, working, visiting, or claiming asylum in the EU.

Both guides cover the following areas:

- Discrimination in employment
- Discrimination in the access to and provision of goods and services,
- crime victim's rights
- Asylum

TGEU's Activist's Guide on Trans People's Rights under EU Law

Our Activist's Guide summarises the legal provisions in EU law that protect trans people from discrimination in the areas of employment and goods & services, as well as the rights of trans victims of crime and trans asylum seekers and refugees. The 20-page booklet contains references to specific legal cases and legal texts and paragraphs, thus making it a useful tool for activists to use in their advocacy work. The Activist's Guide is the more technical and legal publication of the two guides.

TGEU's "Know your Rights!" Guide for Trans People in the EU

TGEU's "Know your Rights!" Guide provides an overview of the same areas of EU law as the Activist's Guide, but it is shorter and written in more accessible, less technical language. The guide aims to raise knowledge and awareness about trans people's rights not just among activists, but also among trans people more generally. It also contains information on how rights can be claimed if they have been violated. The guide can be unfolded into a poster, providing an easy way to reach more trans people at events or in public spaces.
